PAN-MASS CHALLENGE 2009

30th YEAR

Mission Statement

The Pan-Massachusetts Challenge raises money for life-saving cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through an annual bike-a-thon that crosses the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Since its founding in 1980, the PMC has successfully melded support from committed cyclists, volunteers, corporate sponsors and individual contributors. All are essential to the PMC's goal and model: to attain maximum fundraising efficiency while increasing its annual gift. Our hope and aspiration is to provide Dana-Farber's doctors and researchers the necessary resources to discover cures for all cancers.

Dear PMC riders, volunteers and supporters:

On Saturday morning of PMC weekend, I stood in my traditional perch atop a cherry picker overlooking the Sturbridge starting line. As bodies and bikes filled the lot, the sun began to rise and a sea of red jerseys exploded over the dark pavement. My heart grew full.

I had not chosen the primary red color for our jerseys since the very first PMC in 1980, when our red cotton t-shirts and cut-off jeans were considered “riding gear.” Greeted by thousands of PMCs at the Sturbridge starting line, all wearing our original color red, was overwhelming and emotional. I was so grateful for all that the PMC has become over these past three decades.

Only 200 of you who rode in the 2009 PMC (two percent of the riders) have been PMCs since the '80s. So much has changed since then about the world, the event, and all of us as individuals. What's equally interesting is how much the PMC has stayed exactly the same since the first group of 36 riders in red left a parking lot in Springfield for a 220-mile journey that would become legendary.

We are still cyclists on a mission to raise money for cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber. We've spent 30 years on the same path, riding toward the same goal, and we've learned life lessons along the way. For years, so many people would ask what cycling had to do to curing cancer. With a 30 year tally of exactly $270 million, we can proudly answer that query with confidence. Everything! The PMC is more than just a bike ride. It is a fundraising force that has been emulated around the country. Clearly, providing hope and empowering all people to make a difference is a potent formula.

Running the Pan-Mass Challenge for the past 30 years has been a privilege. I could never have predicted my life's course. But, at the end of the day, to have steered a ship that continues to remain relevant and contributes so much to this noble cause is all I could ever have hoped for.

See you on the road,

Billy Starr
Founder/Executive Director

Edward J. Benz, Jr. M.D.

Dear PMCers:

This year's Pan-Massachusetts Challenge, the 30th ride since the event's inception in 1980, is a valuable milestone for measuring how far the PMC has come and how the cause it supports—cancer research and care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute—has progressed in the past three decades.

Numbers tell part of the story: 36 riders in the first PMC, nearly 5,000 in this year's; $10,200 donated to the Jimmy Fund in 1980, $30,384,200 this year. The 30-year totals are stunning: more than 60,000 individual riders (many of whom have participated in multiple PMCs), and $270 million raised. Even in midst of the most dramatic economic downturn in more than a generation, the PMC remains the premier sports-oriented philanthropic event in the world. Its success is a credit to the perseverance, energy, and generosity of all of you, who have participated as riders, donors, or roadside volunteers this year and in previous years.

As the PMC has grown in scale and impact, so has the research it has propelled at Dana-Farber. The tangible results of this work are present in cancer treatment centers around the world: the first-ever drug treatments for a digestive-tract malignancy known as gastrointestinal stromal tumor; new and better treatments for multiple myeloma; early-warning blood tests for recurrent ovarian cancer; vaccines that help the immune system mount an attack on tumors; new surgical and radiation-therapy techniques, and a host of other advances. In the works is a new generation of therapies directed at specific genetic weaknesses within individual tumors, leading to treatments that are tailored to each patient's disease.

We at Dana-Farber know that our progress, and our ability to sustain it, ride with each and every one of you who support the PMC. We're fortunate to be associated with so many people for whom a headwind—actual or economic—is not a deterrent but an incentive. Thank you for all you do to support our work and our shared mission.

Pan-Massachusetts Challenge Gives $30,384,200 to the Jimmy Fund for 30-year Total of $270 million

BOSTON—(Saturday, December 5, 2009, 9 p.m.) The 2009 Pan-Massachusetts Challenge (PMC) has contributed $30,384,200 to adult and pediatric cancer research and care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its August cycling event.

This PMC fundraising gift is the single largest contribution made to the Jimmy Fund in 2009, representing 50 percent of the charity's annual revenue. The funds raised by the 4,937 cyclists of the 2009 PMC brings the organization's 30-year total Jimmy Fund gift to exactly $270 million.

The organization had set the fundraising goal at $30 million. "Exceeding our fundraising goal in this troubled economy is a tribute to PMC riders' commitment to raising money for cancer research and care," said Billy Starr, PMC founder and executive director. "It also shows that people understand the necessity of funding research for this deadly disease."

The ceremonial check was presented to Dana-Farber President Edward J. Benz, Jr., MD, at the House of Blues at a party attended by some 800 PMC cyclists and volunteers. The contribution represents 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar, a charity pass-through rate that is nearly unparalleled within the $3 billion athletic fundraising event industry.

This is possible due to presenting sponsors the Boston Red Sox Foundation and Overstock.com who, along with 200 other corporate sponsors, underwrite the cost of producing the event and provide in-kind contributions of goods and services. In addition, 3,000 volunteers work throughout the year and during PMC weekend, fulfilling many roles that are typically paid positions.

"The money the PMC raises is critical to our work. It enables us to invest in major new patient care and research initiatives that could otherwise go unfunded," Dr. Benz said. "In this economy, when non-profit organizations are seeing a decrease in private, corporate and federal funding, we are extremely appreciative of the PMC's extraordinary support."

Dana-Farber is one of the top cancer research and treatment institutes in the country. The PMC is among Dana-Farber's largest funders.

In 2009, the PMC attracted 4,937 cycling fundraisers from 36 states and eight countries. Each cyclist was required to raise a minimum of between $500 and $4,200 to participate, depending on the route chosen. Routes ranged from 47 to 190 miles over one or two days. More than 90 percent of PMCers raised more than their respective fundraising minimum, according to Starr.

Founded in 1980 when 36 cyclists rode across Massachusetts and raised $10,200 for the Jimmy Fund, the PMC is known today as the "gold standard" of athletic fundraising events, due to the unprecedented sums it raises and its consistently efficient charity pass-through rate. In 30 years, 61,606 cyclists have ridden in the PMC and 36,269 people have volunteered to make the PMC such a successful and well-supported event.

"I am a cancer survivor. Through millions of dollars in contributions to the Jimmy Fund, I sincerely believe the PMC helped save my life." —Barbara Coletti, 22-year volunteer

Larry and Stacey Lucchino.

To the loyal '09 PMC riders, volunteers, sponsors and donors:

On behalf of the entire Boston Red Sox organization, the Red Sox Foundation, and many admirers from Red Sox Nation, we send along our gratitude and congratulations for your relentless support and dedication to the PMC. With 30 years in the books, the PMC continues to grow as the iconic charitable bike ride in this country, reaching new heights of fundraising with each passing summer. Even in this difficult economic climate, so many were inspired to reach into their pockets to support Dana-Farber and the Jimmy Fund. Every dollar donated, every mile completed, every first aid station or water stop manned matters and is much appreciated by so many.

We can't wait until August 2010. Thank you so very much. This is a pivotal time in cancer research and treatment on many fronts. Now is the time for us to rededicate ourselves to arresting and eradicating this miserable disease.

The Red Sox Win When They Invite the PMC to Fenway

Con July 11, 2009, nearly 5,000 PMCs and their friends and family gathered at Fenway Park to celebrate the PMC's 30 years of fundraising success, and to thank the Boston Red Sox and the Red Sox Foundation for their now seven-year presenting sponsorship of the PMC.

Jon Lester signed autographs for the children of PMCs and the crowd in the stands took to their feet to give 30 Living Proof cyclists a standing ovation as they rode their bikes around the warning track. It was a magical night.

Thirty-year volunteer Jim Cornblatt and 30-year riders Billy Starr and Barry Kraft threw the first ceremonial pitches, and a young cancer patient and his family presented a fundraising check for more than $4,000 to Team 9's PMC fundraising campaign.

The Red Sox are 7-0 on PMC Night. What can we say? The Red Sox bring the PMC luck, and we give it right back.

"Two days on the bike remind us of the bigger calling—to be better people, more forgiving and less self-centered."

This year, Team 9 rode in honor of Brian Pender, a 12-year-old Ewing Sarcoma survivor who lost the lower half of his leg to cancer. Brian was more than a Pedal Partner, he was a PMC fundraiser. The family hosted a softball tournament and raised $4,000 for Team 9's PMC ride.

Dear PMC riders and volunteers:

Overstock.com is pleased to co-sponsor the PMC. I can think of no finer organization with which to be associated.

Billy Starr, the PMC family, 5,000 cyclists and over 3,000 volunteers have enabled this charity to increase its numbers immensely.

Cancer is a relentless enemy. But with a force such as the PMC, and others involved in the fight against cancer, cancer now has serious enemies of its own.

Congratulations on your continued success. I look forward to seeing what you achieve going forward. I'm sure we will all be impressed.

Sincerely,

Patrick M. Byrne
CEO, Overstock.com

Lining Up to Support the PMC and Cancer Research

The PMC launched a new social networking website this year, the PMC PacerLine™, upgrading the existing PMC profile pages to help PMC cyclists reach more potential contributors.

Combining the viral nature, speed and connectivity of social networking with the personalization and storytelling of blogging, the PMC PacerLine allows donors to make contributions “in memory of” or “in honor of” loved ones, thus turning their donations into online tributes. The PMC PacerLine is also a way for supporters to become virtual PMCers. When people join the pace line of a PMC cyclist, they can use the system to start their own virtual PMC fundraising campaign, at once joining the pace line of a PMC rider and generating their own pace line followers.

Feedback from riders and donors resulted in changes to the site in preparation for PMC 2010.

PMC Command Center: A Look Behind the Curtain

At the end of Academy Drive in Bourne, its twin cupolas standing tall against a blue sky, lies Massachusetts Maritime Academy's Blinn Hall, the home of the PMC Command Center.

Inside, only 50 feet from the MMA festivities, is a sea of technology that enables 30 Command Center volunteers to be in continuous contact with thousands of riders, volunteers, suppliers, municipal authorities, media, and head staff across 360 miles of infrastructure.

Charged with the responsibility of reducing the physical risks that are inherent when 5,000 cyclists ride together on busy city streets and town roads, the Command Center volunteers follow PMC road vehicles via GPS, track selected riders, and respond to calls that come in from along the route.

"The PMC is unlike any event in the state in terms of area and distance covered. It's logistically bigger than the Marathon and the Sox/Patriots victory celebrations," said Milton Police Chief and team member Richard Wells. "This is truly a large scale public safety concern."

In addition to Chief Wells, the PMC Command team includes a retired fire chief, a fire lieutenant, a retired police chief, four police officers, an IT professional, a limo company owner, two supply chain professionals and a nurse. Together, the team speaks French, Spanish, German, Mandarin and a bit of English.

Here is how it works:

A large projection of the PMC route is prominently displayed on a large screen at the front of the room, with seven communications stations and 20 computers strategically located in front of the massive display.

At each station, there is an array of communications and computer equipment, including Sprint/Nextel units, land lines, trunked radios, local radios, and both wired and wireless internet. Calls to the PMC emergency number, 800-WE-CYCLE, is routed to the Command Center from Friday afternoon through Sunday evening.

When riders collide or face mechanical or medical issues, often their first point of contact is with Command Center volunteers who take the calls and then dispatch the proper crews to the location. Help is quickly relayed from the METRO-LEC Police mobile command post located just outside Command Center.

Requests for bike mechanics are most frequent. The PMC Road Crew, under the purview of volunteer Head Staff member Allan Eyden, has more than 30 vehicles on the road to support the entire ride. Most carry spare parts and a bike mechanic, as well as first aid supplies and a medical volunteer.

In addition, the Command Center takes in hundreds of requests over the weekend, ranging from concerned parents, to the news media, to simple but important issues such as a water stop requesting more water or a specific type of spoke necessary to repair a rider's wheel.

"Our goal is to provide a single point of contact and a link for riders and volunteers to what is needed at the time," says Justin O'Connor, who first volunteered in 1985 and leads the Command Center as a volunteer Head Staff member. "We prepare, starting right after the event, to assure that the PMC rider is the best supported of any event of this type."

"It is amazing how much fun people can have while on the same mission."

Broadcasting the PMC to the Public

NECN is an important sponsor of the PMC. By bringing stories of PMC riders and volunteers to the public, NECN shares the PMC message and mission. In addition to producing dozens of news stories throughout the year about the people and events that make up the PMC, the station produces the live, hour-long opening ceremonies from the Sturbridge Host Hotel on the Friday of PMC weekend, and provides round-the-clock coverage from multiple routes and hub sites along the two-day event. The station also fields a great team, who ride each summer on behalf of a Pedal Partner, and they hold Team NECN fundraising events to which they invite NECN viewers. "For eleven years, NECN has told all of New England why riding a bicycle has everything to do with funding the cures for cancer," says Billy Starr.

PMC Bridge to Progress

Twelve Years Later, Updated PMC Bridge Continues to Inspire

The PMC Bridge to Progress was rededicated in October as part of the 30th year celebration of the PMC and its support of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

While the skywalk bridge physically connects the Smith research and Dana treatment buildings of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, it serves as a symbolic link as well. By funding Dana-Farber researchers, money raised by the PMC brings lab research to fruition as actual treatment in the Jimmy Fund Clinic and at Dana-Farber.

The Bridge is also a PMC museum of sorts, with displays of photographs, t-shirts, rider jerseys, and other memorabilia from the past 30 years. The bridge was first created in 1997. The rededication was an effort to update the bridge and show the public a more accurate and timely depiction of what makes the PMC a magical event.

The PMC Bridge to Progress is Dana-Farber's tribute to the PMC and the riders, volunteers, financial supporters and corporate sponsors who have made the ride the most successful athletic fundraising event in the nation. The names of PMC Heavy Hitters and those who have reached "lifetime achievement" status by raising $250,000 or more, are listed on glass placards on the bridge. Their names, and the total sum the PMC has raised, will be updated annually.

In addition to the money the PMC has raised for cancer research and treatment over three decades, Dana-Farber President Edward J. Benz, Jr., said the PMC's brilliance comes from the community it has created. "You can't experience any part of the PMC and not be inspired by it," Dr. Benz told guests at the bridge rededication celebration. "The most important aspect of the PMC, along with the money it raises, is the spiritual atmosphere it creates for all who are involved."

Deb Freeley: PMC's Living Proof

Four times a cancer patient, Deb Freeley rides on, literally and figuratively.

Blessed with a positive personality and a can-do outlook on life, Freeley completed her third PMC this year, not long after undergoing another grueling round of chemotherapy. Freeley, 52, of Hudson, has been a cancer patient off and on for 20 years.

The first diagnosis was breast cancer in 1989. In 2001, she was diagnosed with metastatic ovarian cancer. She underwent surgery and chemotherapy and responded well. Freeley was given five years of reprieve until 2006 when a recurrence of ovarian cancer resulted in more surgery and chemotherapy.

Freeley, now married for 24 years, had her daughter in 1992, after being told the chemotherapy she received in 1989 had rendered her infertile.

Encouraged by a friend who was forming PMC Team ROAR, Reindeers on a Ride, Freeley had not ridden a bike for years when she started to train for the 2007 PMC. Now she can't stop riding, she says, often riding during the coldest days of winter.

In January of 2009, she was back in surgery. The ovarian cancer had returned. Treatments lasted well into the spring and ended in early June.

But Freeley had no intention of sitting out the 30th PMC.

"You get through what you have to and right now, I have to go on with my life. I'll get through this too," Freeley said of her recent surgery and current treatment. "That is the beauty of the PMC. It helps me emotionally and physically. It is so great because I know I am doing something for someone else too. It is unbelievable to me that I am able to ride in the PMC. I'm just glad I am here to do it."

Freeley completed the one day route from Wellesley and said she felt much better than she expected, considering she was just two months out of treatment. She returned to work at Walpole High School in the fall and has received a good prognosis in her fight against cancer.

Wilkinson's Last Wildwood Challenge

When Ryan Wilkinson, of Medfield, was seven, his grandmother was diagnosed with cancer and he wanted to do something to help.

With his younger sister, Hattie, neighbors, and family members, Wilkinson created a mini-ride for kids, modeled after the PMC and called it the "Wildwood Challenge." That first year, 14 participants rode around the neighborhood block 25 times and raised $1,200 for the PMC.

The Wildwood Challenge quickly turned into an annual ride, a model of youth philanthropy and the founding ride of what is now PMC Kids Rides, a program made up of 31 fundraising bike-a-thons for children across the US. In 2009, 5,500 children participated.

Despite the Kids Rides Program not reaching its ambitious $1 million goal, Patrick Byrne, Overstock.com CEO contributed the $500,000 he originally posed as a challenge. The tykes raised more than $675,000, and together with the Byrne's gift, the total funds raised through the 2009 Kids Rides program is more than $1.1 million.

This past June was Wilkinson's last year organizing the Wildwood Challenge. The ride will be passed on to a neighbor, who will keep the tradition alive. Ryan, now 19 years old, rode in his first "real" PMC this past August. During his tenure as its overseer, the Wildwood Challenge raised more than $118,000 for the PMC.

The Pan-Massachusetts Challenge Kids Rides Program is presented by Stop & Shop. By providing nearly $250,000 in financial and in-kind contributions that included food along the route and gift cards so Kids Rides organizers could purchase food for their rides, Stop & Shop fed thousands of young riders as they pedaled to raise money for cancer research.

Carrying Out a Dying Friend's Wish

Amesbury resident and Massachusetts General Hospital oncology nurse Kristin Beaparlant didn't own a bike. In fact, the 33-year-old hadn't even ridden a bike since childhood, but neither stopped her from promising to fulfill a patient's wish: to ride in her place and raise money for the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge.

The ride had been a summertime staple for Beaparlant's patient, Beth Bennett of New Castle, New Hampshire. Bennett began participating in the event in 1992, well before her own cancer diagnosis.

Summer after summer, Bennett would train and ride in the PMC with her husband Peter Rice until 2004, when feelings of cramping, nausea and loss of appetite led her to see a doctor. In July of 2005, after many misdiagnoses, doctors told her she had a Stage III-C metastatic mixed mesodermal tumor, a rare and aggressive form of ovarian cancer. She underwent more than five hours of surgery involving a complete hysterectomy and the removal of the basketball-sized tumor from her abdomen. Remarkably, the cancer had not compromised any other organs and thanks to chemotherapy, she was doing well and on her way to remission.

In August of 2006, Bennett's ninth PMC was supposed to be a celebration of her victory over cancer. Just weeks before she was to bike nearly 100 miles however, her cancer returned—this time to her lungs. She completed the ride anyway, determined to finish with her husband. Though she did not know it at the time, it was her last PMC.

Bennett checked into the hospital more than a year later, where Beaparlant was her in-patient nurse. Bennett's hospital room was covered in PMC memorabilia. A photo of her husband from the 2006 ride sat on her bedside table. On the wall of the small hospital room hung her PMC jersey from a previous year's ride.

"We became close while she was in treatment. Beth was an amazing person and everyone on the staff loved her," said Beaparlant. "The PMC was all she talked about. 'You should do it! It's the most amazing experience,' she'd say. But I always laughed at the thought of riding 190 miles."

When Bennett's health took a turn for the worse, her family moved her out of the hospital into hospice care.

"Just two days before leaving the hospital, I was washing her hair and she grabbed my hand and told me that she wanted me to have her bike and to ride as a part of the Seacoast Young Team with her husband in her memory," said Beaparlant. "I immediately said I would be honored to." Bennett passed away two days later, on October 2, 2008.

On August 1 and 2, Beaparlant saddled up on Bennett's bike, kept her promise, and rode as a part of the Seacoast Young Team.

"I really didn't know what to expect during the ride," said Beaparlant. "It was phenomenal and very emotional. Everyone misses Beth so much."

"As a nurse, I am privileged everyday to share in the most intimate life experiences alongside my patients. The PMC made me feel like I was actively fighting for every one of them."

Head Nurse in Charge

While there is no Band-Aid solution for ensuring the safety and health of 5,000 cyclists as they pedal 190 miles in the August heat, the PMC relies on its volunteer medical coordinator, Barbara “BJ” Tynan, and her expertise gleaned over 24 years in the medical field, to keep its riders rolling.

For the past seven years, the 59-year-old Quincy resident has volunteered thousands of hours helping to coordinate more than 150 volunteer nurses, doctors, and physical therapists along the PMC route. Tynan staffs medical volunteers at all hub sites and 11 water stops, and assigns medical staff to ride along with the road crew for emergency situations.

During PMC weekend, Tynan can be found running on adrenaline and coffee at Massachusetts Maritime Academy. She is responsible for directing help and care to those who need it. She also connects with all of the hospitals along the route, letting them know that the PMC is taking place so they can be properly staffed for potential medical emergencies.

While plenty of scrapes and sore muscles are treated over PMC weekend, on average about 20 of the 5,000 cyclists are treated for serious injuries. In 2009, there were 17 visits by PMCers to emergency rooms along the route. No one had to stay in the hospital overnight, making this year’s event a medical marvel.

Tynan began volunteering at the PMC in 2002, and was stationed in the medical tent at MMA. As a part-time nurse at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Tynan knew many of the nurses who were volunteering and she enjoyed giving back.

“Now that I am in the Command Center I miss working in the field bandaging the cyclists and talking to them,” says Tynan. “The energy of that weekend is incredibly addicting.”

Months prior to the PMC, Tynan begins soliciting, collecting and storing in-kind donations from area hospitals, ambulance companies and local pharmacies.

For the last two years, Tynan has worked to get 100 percent of all the medical supplies that are needed donated to the PMC—thus saving the organization more than $10,000.

“Soliciting for donations is the hardest part of the job,” says Tynan. “I don’t like asking people for things, but as soon as I get them on the phone they say, what do you need, what can I do? Often, if they can’t give me supplies, they offer themselves as volunteers. Many of these companies are connected with riders and are happy to help.”

Tynan says she’ll be a part of the PMC’s volunteer head staff for as long as they need her.

“What we do seems little compared to the cyclists who raise money and ride,” says Tynan. “But we need to make sure that they all safely get from point A to point B. If anyone sees the impact of the funds raised, it’s the medical staff. Every day at work, we see where the money goes and what it does.”

BJ Tynan has led the volunteer medical team for seven years.

“Of course I was moved by the scale of the event and for the worthiness of the cause, but I was even more impressed by the staff and the overall organization. With 5,000 riders it is amazing that everything comes off without a hitch.” —Vince Asbridge, first-year rider

Police Officer Embraces PMC Pedal Partner Program

A week before the PMC, Police Officer Derek Jones, a PMC rider, and Connor Jones, a six-year-old leukemia patient from Gloucester, spent a special day together at the Georgetown Police Station. While the pair shares a last name and an affinity for law enforcement, they are not related.

For one afternoon in late July, Officer Derek Jones made Pedal Partner Connor Jones' dream of being a police officer a reality.

The Georgetown Police rolled out the red carpet for Connor and his mom Lindsay, presenting Connor with a custom-made police uniform, a badge, a tour of the station, a ride in the police cruiser, and a new bicycle and helmet.

Derek Jones first rode the PMC three years ago, after his daughter Julia beat cancer. While he always rides with Julia in mind, Derek wanted to ride for another child through the Pedal Partner program.

On the Saturday of PMC weekend, Connor arrived at the Lakeville Pedal Partner picnic wearing his police uniform. Soon after, Derek rolled in after biking 70 miles en route to completing the 2-day PMC.

In 2009, there were a total of 79 children from the Jimmy Fund Clinic matched with 76 teams and three individual riders. For the children, being a Pedal Partner is an experience that can serve as a distraction from their rigorous treatments; they become a part of a large group committed to fighting the disease for which they are being treated. PMC cyclists and Pedal Partner families often form long-lasting friendships.

MFS Invests in Pedal Power

This summer, more than 50 employees of MFS Investment Management rode in the PMC. Eleven more volunteered in the event, and hundreds participated through the company's matching gift program. In its 11th year of participating in the PMC, MFS has raised more than $5.6 million for cancer research.

"In this challenging economic environment, the PMC spirit was stronger than ever," says John Reilly, MFS public relations director, PMC rider and captain of the company's PMC team. "The event was exciting and energizing and it was great to see so many people participate in some way."

In addition to fielding a team of riders and volunteers, the company sponsors the PMC hub site at Massachusetts

CHOOSE WHAT FITS.™

Maritime Academy. "The PMC is a large part of who we are at MFS," Reilly says. "It's at the core of our corporate culture of philanthropy."

Celebrating its 85th anniversary, MFS created a company exhibition made up of photos and memorabilia from over the years. The section on the PMC includes a framed jersey from 2008 and survivor Jack O'Riordan with his sign thanking PMCers.

This year, 16-year-old twins Larry and Judith Theriault served as MFS Pedal Partners. They were diagnosed with tumors as infants and have been treated with chemotherapy and radiation at the Jimmy Fund Clinic over the years. The teens have been advocates for the Jimmy Fund, often speaking at charity events to raise money for cancer research and care.

Right Team ConvergEx rang the opening bell at the New York Stock Exchange on July 31, 2009 in honor of the PMC's 30th annual ride. Team ConvergEx, which brings 10 cyclists to the PMC, is led by 11-year rider Ed Gallagher who lost his sister Eileen to cancer in 2005. He is a senior vice president in the equity sales trading unit at ConvergEx in New York.

Riding, Jumping, and Volunteering

PMC rider and volunteer Roslyn McLean, of Charlestown, has always said she would do anything for the PMC. This summer, she proved it by jumping out of a perfectly good plane.

McLean, 38, lost her mother to breast and lung cancer fifteen years ago. She started volunteering for the PMC in 2001, after she suffered from over-hydration while training to ride. By 2005, McLean began riding in addition to volunteering, riding from Wellesley to Bourne on Saturday and serving as a crew leader at the Babson finish on Sunday.

In 2009, she added skydiving to her list of PMC activities. "It's a little more daring than 'just' riding a bike," she jokes. She jumped out of a plane in Middleton, RI, while wearing her PMC jersey and used the jump as a way to generate additional contributions to her PMC fundraising campaign. The jump worked. McLean raised more than $18,000 for the PMC.

The PMC and campaign against cancer is a part of Roslyn's daily life. "Years ago, I became a member of the PMC family, and I haven't looked back," she says. "I basically said I'd do anything to help." And she's not exaggerating. When she's working at Bain Capital, she manages their PMC team. Throughout the year, you will find her at the PMC office and at special events. On PMC weekend, Roslyn is the first and last person you're likely to see at Babson, though you also might find her riding to Bourne, helping at MMA, or gathering luggage in the dark on Sunday morning before driving the truck back to Wellesley.

McLean says she wouldn't want to choose between riding and volunteering. "I wouldn't feel like I was doing enough if I did just one."

Will she be jumping out of a plane again next summer? "It was an unbelievable experience, but I just heard of a man whose parachute did not open. I think I'll keep my feet on the ground," McLean says. After all, she got into the PMC to help save lives.

"Aside from the privilege of being there to hold my mother's hand as she passed away from cancer, the Pan-Mass Challenge was the most profound experience in my life. I have done several fundraising rides for other causes over the years, but never have I felt part of something so critically important, something that truly makes a difference in the lives of others. This weekend, I learned it's not about the personal achievement. It's about what we, who are strong and able, can give to others—life and hope." — Lee Fradette Moehlenkamp, first-year rider

One-Day Loop Opens Lanes for Tween Cyclists

Connor McNeill, an eight grader at the Meadowbrook School in Weston, rode 47 miles in the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge one-day family ride in honor of the school's headmaster, Steve Hinds, who was recently diagnosed with leukemia.

The eighth grader at the Meadowbrook School in Weston, rode 47 miles in the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge one-day family ride in honor of the school's headmaster, Steve Hinds, who was recently diagnosed with leukemia.

The family ride was new to the PMC this year, offering lower mileage, a lesser fundraising requirement, and a lower age minimum, giving more families the opportunity to ride together. Connor rode alongside his father, four-time PMC veteran Jon McNeill. They were among the 54 teens and 404 adults who rode the one-day loop.

"The family loop was a success," says PMC Founder and Executive Director Billy Starr. "The route gave families a way to work together toward a common goal while helping others. That's what the PMC is all about."

Connor is no rookie when it comes to the PMC. Following in his dad's tire tracks, he has both ridden in and volunteered at the PMC Wellesley-Weston Kids Ride for the past three years. Connor rode and organized a team from his school for the PMC Wellesley-Weston Kids Ride with the help of fellow classmate Sarah Braman. More than 80 kids from kindergarten through eighth grade participated and raised money for Team Steve Hinds.

In addition to riding, raising money and leading a team for the PMC Wellesley-Weston Kids Ride, Connor raised an additional $500 to participate in 47 mile one-day-loop.

"It was an amazing experience," says Connor. "I was cheered on and thanked by hundreds of people I didn't even know. Everyone was so supportive—it was a day I will never forget."

Connor's headmaster, Steve Hinds, will also never forget the touching tribute and ride in his honor.

"Connor is the definition of leadership," says Hinds. "In dealing with matters of philanthropy, you hope that high school kids get the message, but here we are talking about middle school students. Nothing is greater than an individual's spirit to give back. I commend both Connor and Sarah for all of their hard work. I admire both of them for their tenacity to follow through and make a difference."

Connor McNeill rode in the Sunday, one-day loop.

"The PMC is unquestionably a reaffirmation of the human spirit. I cannot help but to think that this collective support, focus, and determination will be rewarded someday soon with cures."

Crossing the Country for the PMC

The SPS Cyclists, a crew of teenagers from St. Paul's Preparatory School in Concord, New Hampshire who range in age from 16 to 18, logged 3,500 miles on their bikes this summer cycling across the country to raise money for the PMC.

Together the group took on whipping rain, hail, scorching sun, flat tires, scrapes and bruises all for the sake of the Jimmy Fund. Each cyclist has a personal connection to cancer. Many have lost a friend or family member to the disease, and many know someone who is currently being treated. The SPS Cyclists spent seven weeks away from family, friends and their own beds to raise a total of $50,000 for cancer care and research.

"We all knew we wanted to raise money for a worthy cause that had a significant meaning," says Parker Grayson, SPS Cyclist and junior at St. Paul School.

"There was a lot of discussion about it at first, with many charities on the table, but we all came to the unanimous decision to raise money for Dana-Farber, because cancer has afflicted all of our families."

Team SPS Cyclists includes: Sarah Brockett of Randolph, NH, Ellie Duke of Stowe, VT; Renzo Falla of North Dartmouth, MA; Parker Grayson of Fairfield, CT; Ellen Richardson of Thetford Center, VT; Gwen Kiley Schoch of South Dartmouth, MA and Brendon Stoner of Sudbury, MA.

The SPS Cyclists toured Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund Clinic in the early spring, giving them added motivation for their ride and fundraising.

The crew set out from Burlington, Washington on June 10, dipping their back tires into the Pacific Ocean, and continued on through Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ontario. During the second half of the route, they rode through New York, Vermont, and New Hampshire to reach their final destination of Portland, Maine, where, on July 24, they dipped their tires into the Atlantic Ocean.

"I have seen so many amazing places, struck up conversations with people from all over the US and made some wonderful friends," said Grayson. "This trip is sure to be a memory of a lifetime."

Living Proof: PMC Funding Helps Save Lives

When the road gets long and the hills get steep, three New Hampshire brothers and their cousin think of their father and uncle Tony, who is recovering from nasopharyngeal cancer, a rare form of nasal cancer, and his brother Joe who survived the same disease.

Brothers Anthony, 22, Matt, 20, and Mike, 16, of Londonderry, New Hampshire rode in the PMC to honor their father, Tony, 52, a two-time nasal cancer survivor who was treated at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. "I was pretty young the first time my dad was diagnosed so I didn't really understand, but the second time was much harder," says Matt. "My siblings and I helped out a lot and we had family members chip in, but my mom, who is an angel, was able to take care of my sick father while raising seven children."

Tony was diagnosed with cancer for the first time in 1999. He underwent chemotherapy and radiation treatments at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute for five months until he was cleared of the disease. The cancer came back in 2004 and he underwent the same treatments again.

Tony's brother Joe, 54, was diagnosed with the same cancer last year and has since beat it. Joe's son, Brian, 27, of Andover, MA, rode alongside his cousins. The boys wanted to do something to combine their love of cycling with their love for Tony and Joe. "Riding in the PMC means so much to us," says Matt. "It's our favorite weekend all year. The camaraderie and atmosphere is awesome. Seeing so many people with signs thanking us for riding makes people realize that what we do really does make a difference."

PMC Recognizes its Most Exceptional Fundraisers

The PMC's Lifetime Fundraising Award honors PMCs who have crossed the $100,000 or $250,000 barrier for the first time. Additionally, those who have raised over $1,000,000 lifetime will be recognized in perpetuity. The PMC extends its deepest gratitude to the following exceptional fundraisers, as well as all PMCs who annually commit to surpassing their own personal best.

PMC in Italy

For the second year in a row, Ciclismo Classico, an Arlington-based bike adventure tour company, hosted a small but enthusiastic group of cyclists for the Pan-Mass Challenge Italy, a nine-day version of the popular Bike Across Italy tour. While there is no event in the world like the PMC, this unique Italian version stays true to the PMC spirit: the riding is gorgeous, the spirits are high and the food stops are delicious, abundant and frequent! Like the Sturbridge-Provincetown route, the Italy version is a long journey from Assisi to the sea, with the last 20 miles being hot, dry, rolling and dune-like. The group of seven ended with a refreshing swim, beers and a seafood feast. The team, which included a returning father-son duo, together raised more than $50,000 for the PMC. Visit www.ciclismoclassico.com for information about PMC Italy 2010.

Seven cyclists rode 300 miles in a virtual PMC in Italy and raised $35,000. The trip was hosted by Ciclismo Classico.

New Balance

New Balance has become a valuable partner of the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge. In 2009, the company sponsored both finish lines in Provincetown and produced the 2009 rider jerseys and Heavy Hitter jackets, which 1,730 PMC riders earned by raising at least $6,000. New Balance's support and presence is an important part of the PMC and its culture.
